III. ONE-WAY RESIDENTIAL CHARGING BALANCING ACCOUNT (“RCBA”) 1

IV. CONCLUSION..... 2

V. STATEMENT OF QUALIFICATIONS 3

1 Testimony of Michael Calabrese. The revenue requirement represents the total dollars that need
2 to be collected each year in order to cover the costs and the returns associated with the modified
3 Residential Charging Program.

4 Since the RCBA will be a one-way balancing account designed to ensure SDG&E does
5 not spend over its authorized direct costs limit, if the program's direct cost spend exceeds this 6 limit, the company will not collect on the overspend. In addition, to protect against 7 undercollections during the installation period (estimated to be 2019-2025 with some carryover
8 into 2026 for late customer sign -ups, as described in the Rebuttal Testimony of Michael
9 Calabrese), SDG&E proposes to maintain a rolling balance during that period. Thereafter,
10 SDG&E will annually return to customers any overcollected balance through the amortization
11 process established in its annual regulatory account update advice letter filing until the time the 12 undepreciated plant balances are included in SDG&E's General Rate Case.

13 IV. CONCLUSION

14 SDG&E proposes the following modifications to its original proposal:

- 15 • change the request from a two-way residential charging balancing account to a 16 one-way balancing account; and
- 17 • maintain a rolling balance through the installation period, and refund to customers 18 any overcollections annually until the time the undepreciated plant balances are 19 included in SDG&E's General Rate Case.

20 This concludes my rebuttal testimony.
