Don't fall for scammers pretending to be SDG&E® employees

Scammers work year-round to defraud people, and sometimes these con artists pretend to be SDG&E® employees. Criminals who impersonate utility employees often threaten to take immediate and drastic actions, such as shutting off power, as a way to create a sense of urgency and get victims to pay quickly before realizing it's a scam. Customers can often identify scammers by the way they demand payment, including pre-paid debit cards, green dot cards, and cryptocurrencies, such as Bitcoin. NOTE:

SDG&E will never ask you for pre-paid debit cards or cryptocurrencies as payment.

Phone impersonation

If you receive a phone call from a person claiming to work for SDG&E and the caller asks for payment over the phone, it's a scam. We never proactively contact customers to get their credit card, banking or other financial information over the phone. Even if you have a past-due balance that needs to be paid, remember we'll always provide past-due notices in writing before shutting off service. If in doubt, call SDG&E.

Text messages and mobile apps

Clever scammers have begun to solicit money from customers via mobile devices. Mobile apps and text messaging make it easier than ever for criminals to demand and collect payment. Mobile payment apps are convenient, and busy or distracted customers can fall prey to scams. Note: SDG&E will never ask you to use mobile payment apps as a way to pay your bill.

SDG&E employee onsite? Ask for company ID

From time to time, we hear about people dressed in what appears to be an SDG&E or service uniform, visiting a customer's business or home. The fake employees tell the customer they need to perform a routine inspection. Then one of the imposters distracts the customer while the other steals cash and other valuables.

Next time someone claiming to work for SDG&E seeks to enter your home or business, make sure that person is wearing an SDG&E uniform and ask to see the company identification card. Look to ensure that person arrived in an SDG&E-marked company vehicle.

Customer Service Hotline/Self Help

Scammers often set up temporary phone numbers that sound just like a real call center. You may be greeted with "Welcome to SDG&E" and the menu options may seem the same, but these are fake call center recordings. Never use a number given to you by a caller. Always validate and get published numbers from our website or directory service.
