QUESTION 1:

Following up on SEU-03-3(b) and SEU-03-3(d), please provide the capital costs for SDG&E's service replacements that are equivalent to the aggregate annual capital costs provided by SoCalGas in response to SEU-2-3(b) and SEU-2-3(d). If you cannot provide the capital costs in the same format as previously provided by SoCalGas, please explain why SDG&E does not have the same information on the aggregate annual cost of service line replacement that SoCalGas has already provided to TURN.

RESPONSE 1:

SoCalGas and SDG&E do not utilize the same accounting systems. SDG&E's accounting system is not set up to provide total service and main replacement costs in the same format as previously provided by SoCalGas. Rather, SDG&E's accounting system can only provide all capital Gas Mains and Services plant additions and retirements for a specific month or year and are unable to segregate capital replacement plant from new plant installations.

While SoCalGas has specific budget codes for service replacements and main replacements and thus can provide an aggregate total cost for these items, SDG&E does not utilize specific budget codes that track replacement services and mains separately, and as explained in Response TURN SEU-03-3(b) and SEU-03-3(d), those costs (in the same format) are not available.
